II. Issues on Appeal

The CMC will also present the following issues on appeal:

By confirming the Debtors’ Twelfth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization (the “Plan”), the bankruptcy court stripped non-debtor Canadian Municipalities of their property—their causes of action against other non-debtors—through non-consensual, non-debtor, third party releases without equitable, fair and adequate compensation, of opioid-related claims, against hundreds of non-debtor individuals, trusts and corporate entities specified in Section 10.7 of the Plan (the “Released Parties”). This notwithstanding the fact that the Canadian Municipalities possess all the powers and rights of foreign sovereigns under Canadian, United States, and international law, including the protections of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1602, et. seq. (“FSIA”). These include the requirements for service of process in FISA § 1608, the immunity from suit absent certain exceptions provided in sections §§ 1604-1606, and the right to have claims against them tried exclusively in federal district courts.

Yet the bankruptcy court adjudicated the release of the Canadian Municipalities' claims against the Released Parties in bankruptcy court, not federal district court. And neither the Debtors nor the Released Parties: (1) affected service of process against any of the Canadian Municipalities; (2) established that any of the Canadian Municipalities had minimum contacts with the United States sufficient to subject them to jurisdiction of U.S. federal courts; or (3) demonstrated that any of FSIA's criterion for waiver or abrogation of sovereign immunity were met. These circumstances present the following issues on appeal:

1. Did the bankruptcy court possess personal or subject matter jurisdiction empowering it to adjudicate claims against the Canadian Municipalities relating to the Released Parties?
2. Did the bankruptcy court possess constitutional, statutory, or equitable power to impose non-consensual, non-debtor, third party releases on foreign sovereigns like the Canadian Municipalities, without equitable, fair and adequate compensation?
3. Did the bankruptcy court's release of the Canadian Municipalities' claims against the Released Parties violate sovereign immunity?
4. Did the bankruptcy court's release of the Canadian Municipalities' claims against the Released Parties violate FSIA?
5. Did the bankruptcy court's release of the Canadian Municipalities' claims against the Released Parties constitute an impermissible extraterritorial application of the Bankruptcy Code?
6. Did the bankruptcy court's release of the Canadian Municipalities' claims against the Released Parties without consent, without equitable, just and adequate compensation, and with insufficient advance notice or opportunity for a hearing violate the Due Process Clause of the United States Constitution?

7. Did the Plan confirmed by the bankruptcy court impermissibly fail to provide equality of treatment between the Canadian Municipalities and other municipalities within the same creditor class, or among and between classes of creditors with similar or the same composition?

8. Did the bankruptcy court err by entering an order confirming the Debtors' Twelfth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization and approving the plan processes and classifications that were ultimately revealed as not treating the Canadian Municipalities as creditors in Class 4 under the Plan with similarly situated US municipalities, but rather treating the Canadian Municipalities as creditors in Class 11(c) General Unsecured Claims, without legal or factual basis and to the prejudice of the Canadian Municipal Creditors?

9. Did the bankruptcy court err by entering an order confirming the Debtors' Twelfth Amended Joint Plan of Reorganization and approving the releases at section 10.7(b) by applying an overbroad interpretation of 11 USC § 106 of the Bankruptcy Code, where the Estate possessed no claims or causes of action against the Canadian Municipalities, the primary reason for their filing of claims was to participate in abatement proceedings, and the releases in question involve non-debtor vs. non-debtor matters?

10. Does the bankruptcy court have legal authority or inherent equitable power to impose non-debtor releases as to foreign sovereigns other than those that meet all of the requirements of section 524(g) under the Bankruptcy Code?
